

“Chat and Chew” on Careers

Interior Designers

These individuals make private homes, restaurants, hospitals, hotels and theaters more attractive and functional. They design the interior spaces for additions, renovations and new construction. The job of designing can be a long process. People interested in this career field must be able to budget their time, meet deadlines and be self-disciplined.

The designer acts on behalf of the client to prepare and accept bids, and often oversees the work done by others to ensure it meets various codes and regulations. They don't start their job with a can of paint and fabric swatches.
